Waterfall Chrysanthemums

Festival

October 15th

through

November 30th

JUST as we welcome the works of a newly discovered painter or composer, just as we seek out the new in clothes or decoration for our houses, do we glory in a new "find" for the garden.

A case in point is the bewitching Waterfall Chrysanthemum. So different in character, with its rhythmic flow, from the conventional upright kinds, that one might think it a different plant entirely; yet, the leaf is characteristic and the flowers are the miniature chrysanthemum type.

True, they have been enjoying an ever increasing popularity during the past few years of their sojourn in our midst; but, they are still far from common and are found in comparatively few gardens.

Among the many charming varieties are Pleiades, a large lavender-pink quilled sort; Caesar's Gold, an opulent deep crested bronze-gold; Sweet and Wild, a charming color combination in a pink crested yellow. There are also delicate and deep pinks, lilacs, soft and brilliant yellows, sunsets, rich and flaming reds, as well as the ever beloved whites. You will be intrigued by our stunning Floral Lanterns (large bamboo globes) on which the Waterfalls are trained in attractive fashion.

While they leave nothing to be desired for use in the patio or garden, where they may swing from the trees or rest on the garden wall, they are particularly satisfactory and distinctive as house plants. Placed on a mantle shelf, bracket or pedestal, these dainty flowers make gay contribution of a month or six weeks of bloom.

From October 15th through November we display these chrysanthemums in an authentic Chinese manner. Gorgeous color, wind-bells and incense vie with the gay blossoms for your homage.

CULTURE

Preferably keep in a semi-shady location; cut back stems in February and, from the new growth, select two or more runners, according to age of plant, and keep the remaining shoots trimmed back. Then train and tie these leaders on bamboo stakes or wires, pointing North, and slanting up at an angle of 45°, so that sun strikes all parts equally. Disbud and pinch back the side shoots to one or two leaf joints to develop a bushy, close-branched side growth. About the end of September remove supports and let runners droop over side of pot, facing South to the sun. Plant in a mixture of good loam and leafmold, and during growing season (March-September) feed lightly with a commercial fertilizer (5-10-2). The resulting cascade of color will amply reward you.
